A man in a grey sweater and dark pants stands on the left side of the hallway, talking on a mobile phone. He is wearing glasses and looking towards the right.

Stacks of wooden window frames leaning against a concrete pillar in the middle of the hallway.

A worker in a dark jacket and cap is working at a table or workbench in the background on the right side of the hallway.

A worker in a white hard hat and dark clothing is standing further down the hallway in the background.

A stack of long, silver metal profiles or beams lying on the floor in the foreground.

Three construction workers wearing high-visibility vests and hard hats are gathered on the left side of the frame, looking at a set of blueprints. One worker in the foreground is wearing a bright yellow-green vest and blue jeans, while the others are in darker clothing. They appear to be in the middle of a site inspection or planning session.

The room is characterized by large, multi-paned windows that offer a clear view of an outdoor football pitch. The pitch is green and well-maintained, with white and blue markings. In the background, stadium seating is visible, along with various advertising banners. Some of the banners include the names 'ROUGEOT', 'DECO', 'MARTIN', and 'STCC'. The architecture of the stadium is modern, with a mix of red and white colors.

The ceiling of the room is under construction, featuring a complex network of pipes, ductwork, and electrical conduits. Several large, cylindrical ventilation units or ducts are suspended from the ceiling. The ceiling surface is partially covered with a reflective, silver insulation material. The overall appearance is that of a raw, industrial interior.

A prominent concrete pillar stands in the middle-right section of the room. The pillar is cylindrical and has a slightly weathered, grey appearance. It supports the ceiling structure. To the right of this pillar, another similar pillar is partially visible, along with some construction equipment like a ladder and cables.

The floor is a plain, grey concrete surface, showing signs of construction activity with some debris and scattered materials. There are a few small puddles of water on the floor, and some black cables or hoses are coiled on the right side. The overall atmosphere is one of a busy, active construction site.
